

Title: Stanford Electron internship

Lab: Gozani Lab & Assimes Lab

Location: Department of Biology & Department of Medicine, Stanford University

Status: Without compensation (WOC) appointment; successful applicants may receive research class credits (if applicable) and/or publication opportunities; open to undergraduate students, graduate students, visiting scholars, industry professionals, etc.

Job Description: Work together with a bioinformatics PhD and team of scientists to design and implement a cross-platform desktop application to analyze human genomic data and drive discoveries in human health.

Preferred Qualifications:

Skills

- Interest and/or expertise in Electron, JavaScript, and/or R programming language development.

For project details -- if you are interested in this opportunity and would like to receive further information, please forward your CV/resume to bohdan@stanford.edu